

Northern California Group Psychotherapy Society
24th Biennial Training Institute
June 3-4, 2017
Pre-Institute evening, June 2

The NCGPS Training Institute offers a unique opportunity for both learning and connections. It is designed for group therapists at all levels and allows participants to select one of 12 groups -- all led by Master group therapists. Participants will engage deeply in group process as members and also examine dynamics from a theoretical perspective. In addition to experienced group therapists, we welcome students, interns and new professionals to learn about the value of group therapy as an addition to their current practice.

The groups are geared to various levels of expertise with the intention of bringing the participants to the next level - whether they already have a high level of expertise or are just beginning as group therapists. A special emphasis this year will be topics vital to the societal health of our nation such as socioeconomic, gender, culture, race, and life style differences.

Finding the Gold Within, a poignant documentary film addressing these issues in a large group context, will be shown on Friday evening as a Pre-Institute event. The filmmaker will be present.
